

The Missionary Shrine of Our Lady of Fatima Shrine

That All May Believe

The sixth and final apparition of Our Lady of Fátima took place on 13 October 1917 at the Cova da Iria in Fátima, Portugal, fulfilling the promise made in earlier visits that she would perform a visible miracle “so that all may believe”

As the sun reached its zenith, dark clouds parted and the sun’s surface began to rotate, zigzag, and change colors, visible for up to 40 km away. Witnesses described it as a “dancing sun” phenomenon, unprecedented in recorded history. This public spectacle was the “miracle” promised to confirm the apparitions.

As we approach the final Fatima Days of the 2026 at the shrine, the miracle of the sun is may be one way to consider all that the blessed mother has asked during the faith journey of the Fatima children as fruits of the kingdom of God that the gospel today underlines with great care. What are some of those fruits?

Prayer and action for peace, unshored at a violent time at the end of World War I, where between 15 and 22 million people died, is also important today as war rages in the Middle East, Sudan, Ukraine and elsewhere.

Penance and conversion is understanding how we can damage the gift of love in others and ourselves and allow changed hearts to change lives.

Our global responsibility is realizing that we are one small seed in the family of humanity.

The Immaculate Heart of Mary assures us that miracles about when we live what we believe changes everything..
